The army lies up and down the river from this point, the left about six miles below Fort Darling.

The Call for More Troops.

Gov. Andrews, of Massachusetts, has appended his name to the call for more troops. He only desired to know the contents of the paper before signing it. Gov. Sprague, of Rhode Island, was absent on duty in the army, and authorized his name to be subscribed to the document as soon as application was made to him for that purpose. The request to the president to call for 300,000 more volunteers is thus made unanimous on the part of the loyal governors. The president having complied, doubtless there will be a general response by the people.

FORTEESS MONROE, July 3. This morning the Nellie Baker arrived at Fort Monroe from Harrison's Landing, Fort Monroe from Harrison's Landing, having left there at five a. m. She brings 25 rebel prisoners and a few wounded. The most terrible fighting took place Tuesday last, and with most brilliant success. The rebels were defeated in every action, and the rebel prisoners admit the loss of at least 10,000 that day. Our artillery was most successfully handled, nearly all day, while the rebels have done but very little execution with theirs. Our loss was very small compared with that of the rebels. As fast as the rebel forces were cut to pieces other compared with that of the rebets. As hast as the rebel forces were cut to pieces other fresh troops were immediately marched forward to fill their places. They seemed to disregard the lives of their men and led them under the hottest fire of our actillery. The enemy have been driven back in every fight for the last three days. Our troops are in fine spirits, and never so anxious to fight as now. The steamer Vanderbilt and Arrow Smith have arrived with 1000 wound-

Washington, July 5.
Dispatches have been received from Gen. McClellan dated as late as one o'clock a. m., of the 4th. The following is their substance, omitting details not proper for present publication: There had been no fighting since Tuesday night, when the enemy were repulsed with great slaughter. The army moved to the position now occupied because it affords superior advantages for the co-operation of the gunboats, of which 17 are It is reported that the army under Gen. cration of the gunboats, or winch it are now in the river, protecting the flank of our army. Statements of the causalties in the several battles of the eight days cannot the formished. Our forces were not yet be furnished. Our forces were not beaten in any conflict, nor could they be driven by the uttermost_efforts of the enemy. No gons have been lost since the 27th, when McCall's division at the onset were overwhelmed, and 25 pieces fell into the hands of the enemy. The sick and wounded are being sent to hospitals. At one o'clock, yesterday, the army was drawn up in its position for review. The bands were playing, and national salutes being fired and things looking bright.

Catro, July 5-3 P. M. The ram Monarch has arrived with important news from Vicksburg. On Thursday morning, the 26th ult., Com. Porter's mortar fleet commenced to shell the upper fort, below the town. This was continued all day without result. On Friday morning the bombardment was recommenced, and in the afternoon directed on the town itself. The shells could be seen to barst over the town. This was continued until about four o'clock, when the fleet was signalled to cease firing. The batteries on shore re-plied very light and at long intervals, firing very inaccurately. About an hour after the cessation of this bombardment, the water battery opened on the mortars, which replied until the batteries ceased firing.—

When the firing ceased at four p. m., the captains of divisions were signalled to re port on the flag ships, when an order was issued to open fire with the whole fleet upon the town at eight o'clock that night.

At the appointed time the action was commenced, and continued an hour. An order then came from Commodore Farragut and eight vessels passed the batteries with out serious damage. The damage to the eity must have been great, toppling houses, falling chimneys, crashing roofs, and slight conflagations being seen in various places. We are also informed on indisputable authority, that 5,000 negroes have been ordered by General Butler to work on a canal grove. across the hend, on which Vicksburg, or its remains are now situated. Vicksburg advices of the 28th, to the Vicksburg advices of the 28th, to the Grenada Appeal, state that Farragut fought the batteries with full force, and the batteries returned the fire as long as they could hold out. The batteries having been built on a level with the houses of the city on purpose, hardly a house is left standing in Vicksburg. This is the third town destroyed by Farragut.

World, writing from the army, says: Elsewhere I have alluded to the fact that Jackson was knocked from his horse by a canister shot from Martin's Massachusetts battery, during the fight on Friday. I can now state that the Richmond Dispatch of Monday, found on a prisoner taken last night, announces his death in solemn court; also that of Gen. Barnwell Rhett of South Carolina. Rhett was undoubtedly killed in the action at Savage's Station, on Sunday. The prisoners further say that Gen. Long-street was wounded in the back in the fight

At noon 100 guns were fired from the fleet, includwhose fleet was then five miles below, to again shell the town the next morning at four o'clock, when a portion of the fleet would run the blockade. This was done, vee and different camps.

A former employee of the Mobile and Ohio railroad, from Mobile via Tupelo, says there are two gunboats and one ram in Mo-bile Bay, and about 10,000 rebel troops he-low Mobile on the shell road, and that the fortifications around Mobile, commenced a month ago, are completed. MORNING DISPATCHES. New York, July 7.
The Tribune says, we have from our special, details of Tuesday's battle, not hereto-fore reported at length. The fight was very severe. And extended all along the line. We lost many officers and men, but drove the rebels back. It was chiefly an artillery fight, but our men made several splendid and successful charges. The enemy were determined, being purposely made mad with drink, and staggered up to our guns only to be cut down by hundreds. The result of be cut down by hundreds. The result of Tuesday's engagement was distinctly in our favor. The rebels were defeated in every action. One of our correspondents saw Gen. McClellan on Wednesday. He came on board the mail boat as she reached Harrison's Landing. He walked aft with Gen. Patterson, who came on the boat. Gen. McClellan was resticulating violently with

McClellan was gesticulating violently with his clenched hand, but his remarks were not heard. Subsequently, in reply to Gen. Patterson, Gen. McClellan said, "We have fought a battle every day for the last week, and whipped them every time, though they had three to our one." Our dates by mail are down to Friday morning. At noon, Thursday, the rebels appeared in force four miles from McClellan's front, and began shelling, but had no effect. It is said that the enemy are in large force on the east side of the Chickalarge force on the east side of the Chicka-hominy, and that they threaten McClellan's right wing. What the rebels are about on the south side of the river is not known, but it is feared that on one side or the other they will erect batteries to command the navigation below our position.

The very latest from Gen. McClellan is by telegraph dated at his headquarters. Saturday evening. All was quiet.

No more furloughs will be given to returned prisoners. All turloughs heretofore given them are hereby revoked, and all prisoners now at large on their presents. risoners now at large on their paroles, or who may hereafter be paroled by the rebet authorities, will immediately repair (if he-longing to regiments raised in the New England or Middle states,) to the camp of instruction near Annapolis.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES. FORT MONROE, July 5. Fort MONROE, July 5.
Fresh troops arrived here from Washington, yesterday, during the day, and went up the James river on the evening of the 4th. Four small steamers with barges in tow,

Great difficulty exists in obtaining a list of killed in our late battle, as comparatively few cases exist where any one can tell whether the missing were killed, wounded or taken prisoners. For the last two days the rebels have shown but little disposition to light, and yesterday relinquished their ground and batterics almost without resistance. FORT MONROE, July 5.

PROLONGED FIGHTING.

"The army has been engaged in constant conflict with the enemy for six days, during which their highest energies have been taxment of repose—no opportunity scarcely to properly care for the wounded and to bury the dead. The enemy have closely watched every movement, and, with an army more than double that of our own, have had the ability to constantly launch fresh troops up on our rear, an advantage which they have been quick to discover, and remorseless in improving. Their perfect knowledge of the roads, paths and bridges, and the topography of the country, which has taken us time to learn, has placed an immense advantage

THE REBEL ATTACK ON OUR CENTRE.

At about seven o'clock on Thursday night the enemy attempted to break our centre. To accomplish this he made most igorous efforts, but was boldly and success fully met by General Griffin, who arranged his men in excellent order and encouraged them by his presence and daring. The Fourth Michigan, Col. Woodbury, and the Fourteenth New York, Col. McQuade, es pecially distinguished themselves for the many brilliant and prompt movements they The Ninth Massachusetts and Sixty-second Pennsylvania are also deserving of much credit for the successful manner in which they repelled the enemy's charge

While the rebels were endeavoring to force back our centre, the left of the column was also busily engaged in keeping the enemy from crossing the bridge over the stream on the lower road. The Peun-sylvania Reserves fought bravely, and their nflinching perseverance was the only thing that prevented the robels from gaining ground in that quarter. The enemy seem ed to concentrate his whole strangth first at the centre and then at the left of our line, but in each attempt he failed to cross the stream. Our batteries did not spare the canister and grape, and whenever an opportunity offered a most terrible fire was poured into the rebel ranks. The Pennsylvania Reserves, who were in the rifle pits kept up an unceasing fire upon the rebels on the other side of the stream, and finally compelled them to abandon their origina position at that end of the line.

"At 9:30 p. m. the firing had entirely ceased, the rebels had been repulsed, and we held our ground. Our loss was comparatively small, not exceeding two hundred and fifty killed and wounded." THE SECOND DAY'S BATTLE.

At 3 o'clock on Friday morning the alsepers were aroused, and a whisper passed from ear to ear that the enemy were on the move. The picket firing became more frequent, and it was evident that the robels were preparing to renew the attack. Our men were again formed in battle array up-on nearly the same ground occupied by them the preceding night, and everything was ready on our part to again flay the reb

"That the rebels received strong reinforcements during the night was a fact not to be disputed, and the event was certainly not unexpected by us. Intimations that the rebels intended to attack our right had been in circulation for a week, at least, and we had no reason to suppose that so important a movement would be attempted by a light force. The enemy came prepared not only to force us from the stream and the Mechanicsville road but also to drive us across the Chickahominy. Later in the day the rebel force was estimated to be not less than seventy five thousand men. The force we brought to bear numbered about twenty theusand. Of course, to hold our position against such fearful odds was an impossibility, and the next best thing had to be

OUR FORCES PALL BACK.

"At daybreak, finding the enemy was rapidly closing on our right flank, General Porter issued orders for the whole force to slowly fall back toward Gaines' Hill. This movement was conducted in the most orderly and satisfactory manner, and had I not known the nature of the movement it would have been impossible for me to decide whether the army was advancing toward or ! retiring from the enemy. No hasty demonstrations were made, and every gun carriage Stoneman and Casey have repaired to For- for ant every wagon held its place in the col- tress Monroe under special orders. Great ed

TERRIBLE FIGHTING.

"At about one o'clock on Friday afteracon our guns began to respond to those of the enemy. The skirmishers were already engaged in front of the centre, and soon after they got to work along the whole ex-tent of the lines. The firing became more frequent as the enemy's pickets advanced. The skirmishers were at length called in and took their position in the line.

" By far the heaviest battle in which the Army of the Potomac bad yet been engaged was now progressing. The rebels came down from Richmond in tremendous force, and they fought with the desperation of madmen. We had taken the precaution the preceding night to remove all the siege guns on the right to the other side of th river, and then destroyed all the bridges above the one which crossed just at the rear of Smith's division. "I have no idea that it was originally designed by McClellan to make a stand on the right side of the Chickahominy, but to quietly withdraw the force on that to the other side. We had thrown up but few earthworks, only two of which were mounted. Five 30-pound Parrotts were mounted on an earthwork near Gaines' house, and ave more 32-pound Rodmans were placed in position behind an earthwork near Hogan's house.

"On Wednesday we opened these guns on the enemy, keeping up the fire from 10
A. M. till late in the afternoon. The fire was directed to the rebel batteries on the

Now the Pennsylvanian age. bluff across the river opposite Gaines This bluff was lined with open and masked batteries, and I believe that to have taken possession of the bluffs would have required the united force of the whole army. This was the strong point of the ener y, and he could have held it against terrible odds.

"At one time we could not have had less than sixty guns in practice, and the enemy had as many, if not more. The roar of caunon was truly awful. Shells were bursting in every direction, and a dense cloud of smoke covered the entire field.

"The enemy now advanced in columns toward our center. Martindale's brigade stood firmly to receive the charge, as also did the 5th New York Zonaves, who were on the right of Martindale. The rebels were repulsed, but at the loss of numbers of our brave men. Hundreds of rebels were seen to fall, but their places were firing. They saw the advantage gained by ickly filled by others.

this occasion, but also the infantry, who kept up an incessant fire.
"It was near three c'clock, and during the hour following there seemed to be a lul in the terrible conflict. The enemy was apparently bringing down reinforcements from Richmond, netwithstanding their force already exceeded ours by over fifty thousand.

"We also found it indispensable to have a larger force. Accordingly General Slo-cum's division crossed the Grapevine bridge and proceeded to the right of the line. French's and Meagher's brigades subsequently crossed over the same bridge, and took positions further to the left. The enemy had made two charges, and been repulsed in both."

CHARGE OF THE ENEMY.

"It was now approaching five o'clock, and the enemy was preparing to make a charge on the left wing of this portion of our force. With this view he seemed to have concentrated the larger portion of his force on the hill directly opposite Gaines' house. He had been largely reinforced by fresh troops, and seemed determined to make one more vigorous effort to break our line. The rebels descended Gaines' bill six columns deep, in compact order. mass of men gave our artillerists on the left a splendid opportunity for practice, and when the proper time arrived, a deadly fire was opened upon the advancing columns. An immense weight of canister and grape was thrown among them, and hundreds of The rebels, however, were not checked by our artillery, and onward they came toward our left. Gen. Butterfield, with uplifted hat, passed from one to the other end of his brigade, cheering and encouraging his men, calling upon them to fight like soldiers, and if need be, die like soldiers. The conduct of Gen. Butterfield during the whole engagement elicited the admiration of all who saw him. The presence of Gen. Martindale among his men seemed to inspire them with double zenl, and they fought like men who were fighting for the noble cause of country." CUR RETROGRADE MOVEMENT.

CUR RATHOGRADE NOVEMENT.

"Every men stood at his post resolved to do his utmost to repel the enemy. Volloy after volley was exchanged, but neither side wavered. At last the rehels nour ed a tremendous volley into our ranks which thinned them out to an alarming extent. After a while the superior numbers of the rebels also began to tell, and it became evident that our troops would soon be obliged to give way. The troops under the command of Gen. McCall were nearly exhausted, having been in the battle of the preceding day, and having passed the night without sleep. Our men fought well, but they could not do impossibilities. man could not contend against three, and come out the winner. The left wing began to fall back. The center and right of the column were necessarily forced to do the same, and our entire line commenced retreating toward the river. The guerry upon the auspicious moment, and with furious yells, rushed formed upon our broken ranks. The horses antached to the batteries on the left were hearly all shot, consequently most of the pieces had to be abandoned. Teamsters and ambu lance drivers began to whip up their horaes, and try to get up another Bull Run. Some portions of cavalry were galloping helter skelter, and confusion among the infantry would have taken place had no the officers levelled their pistols and three ened to shoot the first man that ran." SOME OF OUR LOSSES.

"The 5th New York Zonaves went into the battle with over 700 men. They returned with less than 300. "The 44th New York went in with about 400, and returned with 250. "The 16th Michigan lost about 300 mea, "The Pennsylvania reserves suffered terribly, as did nearly all the regiments stationed on the left of the line.

"Gen. Butterfield's brigade was cut up "Easton's Pennsylvania battery of four pieces was lost; Allen's Massachusetts bat-tery lost four; Weeden's Rhode Island hat tery, three; Edwards' Pennsylvania battery, two; Weed's United States battery, two; aud Kern's Pennsylvania battery, pieces of artillery. "Several other pieces were lost, but I am

The war correspondent of the Philadelphia Press gives a description of the battle of Saturday on the Peninsula, with full par-ticulars up to Monday afternoon. Geneconfusion existed there.

THE BATTLE OF SATERDAY. The affair of Saturday last partook more of the nature of a battle than the engagements of Thursday or Friday. Gen. Fitz John Porter has covered himself with glory. He selected a very strong position, and, having posted his forces in an admirable manner, was prepared to hold it against any force of the enemy. The brave men of his command all fought with heroic courage, and the volunteers vied with General Syke's regulars in making steady move-ments, and carefully executing the comnands of their officers. Time and again, vast hordes of rebels moved up in solid colums upon our troops, but our regular batteries as often mowed them down in a most destructive manner. Steady discharges of shell, grape and can-ister, in regular saivos, seemed to sweep lown whole companies.

CHARGE OF MEAGHER'S IRISH BRIGADE, As soon as confusion in the rebel ranks was apparent, Gen. Porter ordered Gen. Meagher's Irish brigade to charge bayonets, which they did in a most gallant and heroic style, bare headed, in their shirt sleeves, occasionally with these rolled up.

This charge had an excellent effect. The rebels were driven back with great slaughter, and Gen. Porter was preparing to move upon them over the piles of rebel dead and dying, when the enemy again advanced

THE PENNSYLVANIA REGIMENTS

Now the Penusylvanians gave them the benefit of all their splendid rifles, while the batteries played on them as before, creating and havoc. Indeed, the slaughter upon other fields during this war has never been anything to compare to this. The rebels staggered under their losses, and our forces were advanceing steadily upon them, driving them back at every point, when a staff officer rode up with an order from the commander in-chief to Gen. Porter, directing him to fall back with his command, and cross the Chickahominy.

FALLING BACK. The order was executed in fine style, and our troops did not miss a man, the enemy being too severely punished to follow us closely. The only difficulty was with the Pennsylvania reserves and Meagher's Irishmen-their commanders exerting all their powers to induce these brave men to cease CARS DESTROYED AT THE WHITE HOUSE. Four trains of cars, loaded with forage were ordered to Despatch on Saturday, but meeting the enemy's pickets on the road, the trains were backed down near the White House, the cars were burned, and the four locomotives were blown up. This was a great loss, but it was enhanced by the desruction of stores, &c., at the White Houseeverything there being in flames. Elegant ambulances and loaded baggage wagons were rolled down to the river bank, and, there being no time to burn them, they were cast into the river.

I embarked with many others on board the John Brooks, but, owing to the fact that our vessel was too large to move down the river in safety at night, we dropped anchor in sight of White House Point. houses burned on all night, and the scene presented was one of the grandest  $\Gamma$  ever beheld.

REBELS AND GUNBOATS. The rebels were not in sight on Sunday morning when we moved down the river. The gunboats dropped down with us some miles, and anchored under a bluff, so as to allow the rebels a chance to come as far east as they choose.

A boat sent up to communicate with General McClelian by way of James river, was fired on recently by a rebel field battery.

From the N. Y. Tribune.

THEREY BRIDGE, JAMES HIVER,
Nine A. M., Tuesday, July 1.

Another tremendous battle, more terrible carnage, yesterday. From Wednesday to Monday has this army been fighting—a six days' battle, or, if you please forty battles.

Early yesterday morning the enemy appeared in forceat White Oak Swamp, the position we had assumed during the night previous. In this retreat-why hesitate to use that word?—he has not, in a single instance, long hesitated to attack—he did not now By noon the action had commenced—the battle of White Oak Swamp. Musketry had not cased when I left the field at 10 p m. It will scarcely rank in magnitude with Gaines Hill, and yet we did not suffer more, nor cause to suffer more, at Fair

It is impossible for me to give a circum stantial account of this battle, raging as it did ten hours, and extending along a line of 21 miles, and fought on ground such that not one tenth of the men was in view from any point of vision. At least three-fifths of what remains of McClellau's army was engaged in or immediate reserve.-Heintzelman's, Sumner's, and Franklin's corps were thus, and a portion of each of Keyes' and Porter's. More could scarcely have been brought into an action had the fate of the country depended on the one effort. Not so many can be brought into line to day. And yet we only harely held our ground—perhaps not quite. I shall have to hurry on to the results.

Our loss of yesterday may be estimated at 5,000 Many of these are prisoners. The Pennsylvania Reserve were again in the thickest. This morning they do not muster 3,000 man. Add to these 1,000 who are straggling and will yet come in, and the number is less than half that they began with at Beaver Dam. They lost severely there, they were more than decimated the next day at Gaines Mills, and yesterday they shrank to this small measure. Their leader, Gen. McCall, is severely wounded and in the enemy's hands. Our brigade commander, Gen. J. J. Reynolds, is a prisoner at Richmond, another, Gen Geo. G. Meade, lies in a tent near as seriously wounded. Officers of lower grade they have lost in about the same proportion Of the Bucktail Legiment not a hundred respond to the roll-call. And so with other divisions, for the losses of the lest six days cannot be less than 15,000. It is only hoped that they will not reach 20,000.

Our generals behaved like Napoleon's under his own eagle eye. Gen. McCall was severely wounded in the shoulder, but refused to leave the field or to dismount. A night when the enemy had been driven back, his horse was found dead, and this is all that is known of his fate. How Generals Richardson and Dana, always well up in the melec, escaped unfurt seems miracul The same may be said of scores .-Gen. Burns and Gen. Brooks were each alightly wounded, but neither so disabled as to leave the field. Col. Wyman, 16th Massachusetts, was killed late in the day, under what circumstances I cannot say, but in a brave fight it may be warranted, for such was the place he always sought. Col. Hinks, 19th Massachusetts, fought his regiment until he had less officers than companies, made two bayonet charges, and fought his men until at length he fell wound-

Let it be recorded here, that a regiment always fights precisely like its officers. This fact recurs to me as I speak of the 19th, since that furnishes one of the most notable instances bearing on the assertion The varying fortunes of the field are shown by the fact that each side took guns and large numbers of prisoners. Among those taken from the enemy are Col. Lamas of Georgia, ex-M. C., the noted secessionist of long standing, and Col. Pendleton, of a Louisiana regiment, formerly of Cincinnati. A whole brigade was captured by Heintzelman—a small brigade, 1,500 strong. Per-haps 3,000 were taken during the day. That the enemy's loss of the last week nore than exceeds our own, is as nearly ertain as anything can be of which there is no direct proof. He has lost fewer by capture than we, but his killed and wound must fully balance the account. By fighting the enemy in chosen positions, where the artillery could play havoc with all who should attempt to approach, we piled his dead in winrows. Our superiority in artil lery has saved the army from utter annihi lation. And yet the most tenacious strug gles have been over these very guns. a-----

The church milliant has parted with another, that she may enter upon they joys and glories of the church triumphant. Mrs. Hawes was a native of Connecticut, where she was born in 1791. On the 27th of November, 1808, she was married to Rev. Josiah Hawes, thereby becoming a partner with him in the ministry of the gospel. She was ever esteemed as a faithful servant of Christ and was much beloved for the many virtues that selorned her character and life. During the period of her husband's labors in the ministry she contributed largely to his usefniness; and while for eighteen consecutive years he was pastor of the Congregational church in North Lyme, Ct., her influence, counsel and prayers were efficient alds to him in his pastoral work.

Removing to Unadilla, N. Y., the good man was called to his eternal home, but she remained, always obe-dient to the will of her divine master. Receiving every filial attention from her children, in whom she we lessed, she came with them to Janesville, Wis., in the spring of 1969, where she has fallen asleep. Admonished by age and falling strength that her end was near, she expressed herself as having no fears of the conling event; rather she had a desire to depart and te with her Lord.
